

WILMINGTON BEING CONSIDERED FOR MULTI- MILLION DOLLAR PLANT

A major Boston industrial real estate firm has visited Wilmington 'at least three' times in the past few weeks, interviewing the Town Manager and others about a location for a proposed $25,000,000 plant for a nationally prominent manufacturer.

Representatives of the R. M. Bradley Company, of Boston, have met with the Town Manager to discuss sites for a firm whose name has not been revealed.

The firm needs a site with 50 to 100 acres of land, and will use 2,000,000 gallons of water per day.

R. M. Bradley and Co first started their search for the site within a 10 mile area of Boston, and have since expanded their search to a 20 mile radius.

All the contiguous towns to Wilmington have been visited during the search, but so far as is known Wilmington is the only town that has been visited three times.

One of the sites discussed is located off Route 125.

DRUG STORES HAVE REGISTRATION BLANKS FOR POLIO CLINIC

July 31st Clinic

Wilmington need not have a 'Polio Scare' such as is now being experienced in Rhode Island, Pat Thibau, Town Sanitarian stated Wednesday morning.

Thibau reported that all four of Wilmington's pharmacies are again co-operating in registering Wilmington residents for the Family Polio Clinic, to be held by the Board of Health, in Wilmington High School July 31st.

The fee will be the same as in the June clinic, when 1275 persons were inoculated with Salk vaccine - $2 for a family of any size, or $1 per person if alone, Thibau stated.

There will be plenty of vaccine, and the injections of the vaccine will be under the care of Dr. Gerald Fagan of Clark Street.

Registrations may be made at the Wilmington Center Pharmacy, the Kristal Pharmacy and the Silver Lake Pharmacy, all on Main Street, and the North Wilmington Pharmacy, in North Wilmington Center.

FIREMEN'S SKILL PRAISED IN LYNCH ACCIDENT

Paul Lynch Jr. Improving

Members of the Wilmington Fire Department were highly praised by Wilmington police for the professional skill shown extricating three Wilmington youths from a wrecked auto, on Wildwood Street, last Saturday morning.

Lt. Robert Woods, and Firemen Erlmest Burns and Gus Blaisdell were responsible for the extricating of the three boys, one of whom is the son of Wilmington's Chief of Police, from a car which had been very badly wrecked after smashing into a tree.

The firemen, according to Officers Brennan and Palmer, of the Wilmington Police, arrived on the scene within seconds of the accident, and very skillfully cut their way to the right hand door of the car, near which the three boys were trapped.

They arrived with the Town Ambulance, and the Rescue Truck, and a few moments later the Burlington Ambulance appeared on the scene. The injured youths were sent to two different hospitals, because of the early morning hour, in order to effect a division of emergency work for attending physicians. The Burlington Ambulance took Mike Duggan, 17, of St. Paul Street to the Choate Memorial Hospital, in Woburn.

Robert Ahern, 17, of Wildwood Street, and Paul Lynch Jr 16, of Faulkner Avenue were taken to the St. John's Hospital, in Lowell.

Young Lynch has not yet recovered consciousness, but is improving. His name is on the critical list. He has been able to note the presence of his father, but has made no other sign of recognition since arriving in the hospital.

He is suffering from injuries to his skull, and a broken right leg, broken in two places, one being very near the hip. An operation on the skull performed by Lowell surgeons is reported to have shown no apparent brain injuries.

Ahern, also in the St. Johns Hospital, is in far better condition, but will be kept in the hospital for some time, with a broken right leg.

Mike Duggan, in the Choate Memorial Hospital, is suffering from multiple fractures combined with head injuries.

He is reported to be doing well, and is 'definitely not on the danger list', according to the hospital.

He is under the care of Dr. Joseph Dirago, noted surgeon of Woburn.

Crash heard long Distance

The noise of the accident, last Saturday morning, woke up many people on Church Street and Middlesex Avenue, some of whom reported that they thought a jet plane had gone through a sound barrier.

Paul Lynch Jr., driving his father's car, was taking young Ahern home, after the three had attended a Drive In Movie theatre. He lost control of the car at a point about 100 feet beyond the home of Joseph Meuse, and crashed into a large red maple tree.

The point where the accident took place is on the edge of

THIRTEEN FILE FOR POLITICAL OFFICE IN WILMINGTON

Many Signatures in Error

Thirteen filings of candidacy for nomination to political office, with the Wilmington Board of Registrars, kept the board working late, Tuesday night.

Hundreds of Wilmington residents who had signed the nomination papers did not sign their names as they are registered with the Board of Registrars, and consequently their signatures were invalid.

People who registered using their middle initial forget to include it while signing nomination papers, or else used their full name. In both cases the signature was not allowed by the Wilmington Registrars.

CHLORINE DID THE TRICK AT SILVER LAKE

Count Down to 43

100 pounds of Chlorine, dumped into Silver Lake by Supt. Eddie Sargent of the Wilmington Water Department, last Thursday and Friday, has vastly improved the qualities of the water, for swimming purposes, according to Town Sanitarian Pat Thibau.

Pat, newly returned from a Bermuda honeymoon with the former Mrs. Harold Smith of Birchwood Road, was advised, Wednesday morning, by Northeast District Engineer of the Massachusetts Department of Public Health Herbert Nickerson, of Marie Drive.

Nickerson took tests while Thibau was in Bermuda.

The waters of Silver Lake, last week, had a count of 4600 - the highest ever, in bacterial count, and swift measures were taken by TM Lancaster to drop the count, with chlorine.

Weekly tests are to be continued, Thibau stated Wednesday morning.

THE OLD SIDEWALK SNOWPLOWS

Our Town Manager has gone and advertised for a sidewalk roller, and just in case you might think we have gone modern and started buying machinery for sidewalks you're wrong. We had machinery for sidewalks back before World War I and what's more, we had sidewalks.

We had sidewalks on Main Street from Eames Street to Glen Road, and along Lowell Street, and on Woburn Street, from Perry's corner north some distance, and along Church Street and Middlesex Avenue. And we had sidewalks on Burlington Avenue to Boutwell Street, and on Clark St. and on Thurston Avenue, if our memory serves us rightly. And on High Street in North Wilmington there was a very fine sidewalk. Perhaps there were some more that we don't remember right now.

Bill Mack (MacIntosh) was the Highway Commissioner in those days. He left, about the end of World War I to take a job in Danvers as Highway Commissioner at the stupendous salary of $3000 a year. It was a good job, and he stayed there for 7-8 years, until he made the mistake of backing a politician who was running for Selectman. His politician didn't get elected and Bill Mack was out of a job.

Bill Mack, or maybe his predecessor, Bill Hen (William Henry Carter Two, he who took off his hat at Mrs Hiller's funeral), had had granite dust spread on the sidewalks, all over Wilmington, and they were a thing of beauty, especially on Memorial Day and the Fourth of July when people used to spruce up real special.

But as we said, we had machinery for sidewalks, to wit, three sidewalk snowplows. Sidewalks were just a little more important than streets, in Wilmington's way of thinking, when it came winter time - at least the sidewalks were plowed for any storm of over 5 inches, and you had to get a couple of feet of snow to get really excited about plowing the streets. The idea of course, was that if you used the street you had a horse and sleigh, and any horse worth his oats could go through a foot of snow with no trouble at all - but if you were on the sidewalk you were on foot. Today of course, where we have sidewalks left, its often the horses that are on the sidewalks, and the people on the streets.

Those sidewalk plows were about three feet wide, and just as high. They had a "wing" that could be swung out, to make a total plowed width of about four feet, and one horse could pull them, except when the going was rough when two horses would be used. The driver stood on a little platform that was inside the plow, and if the kids in the neighborhood were real good or if some more weight was needed when the going was rough, he might allow them to ride too.

We used to keep those plows in some of the farmer's barns, in various parts of town. The locations were always shifting, depending on who was hired in any particular year to work those plows. One of them used to be in Bill Hen's barn, at the corner of Shawsheen Ave and Bridge Lane. Fred Brabant (he pronounced it Brabo) used to be the man who handled that plow - Fred was one of the best teamsters in Wilmington in those days.

Life would be simpler, if

Charley Blaisdell kept one of the plows too. We think this is the plow that Ed Taylor used to work - Ed lived in the house that is next to Patsy's Farm, and was another excellent teamster. He was killed by an electric car, on Main Street, about opposite to where the theatre used to be. There was a railroad siding there and Ed was loading a wagon at the siding when a street car got the horses excited. Ed ran out to stop the horses, and was dragged in front of the car.

The driver we remember best was Charley Perry, who lived on Church Street. Charley used to do the sidewalks in the center of town.

He had a wonderful disposition. The other drivers might or might not allow the kids to ride, but Charley always did, and there would generally be three or four kids in with Charley even when the going was good.

But the automobile spoiled all that. The owners thought that as taxpayers they had a right to having the streets plowed, so the town shifted to trucks for snowplowing. Then the auto owners parked their cars on the sidewalks so that most of them disappeared.

And now the sidewalk plows have disappeared too - we haven't seen one for about 40 years.

A LITTLE IMAGINATION CAN BE USED

It is our sad conclusion that the Town Hall has arrived at the state of affairs where it should be told "it's time to use a little imagination".

We are referring to our industrial picture. Our Planning Board, true, is considering the re-zoning of additional industrial land in Wilmington, as they promised five years ago they would - but additional land, while it may do some good, is only a part of the answer.

What about the 1000 acres that we have now zoned for industry? There has been only one or two takers, in five years. There have been enquiries, half a dozen or so in the past six months, but no takers.

What's wrong? People come, look, and then look elsewhere!

Our southern industrial zone has plenty to offer - easy access to a good highway, good property, water, sewerage. Yet the only takers are relatively small firms, and if this continues we will have both West Street and Woburn Street lined with smaller firms, and perhaps a vast hinterland, good only for blueberrying.

So - Let's Build a Connector.

Let us connect lower Woburn Street with West Street. Let the highway be a heavy duty one, with water and sewer lines installed.

We could make the southern area into a nice industrial park, with a little imagination. We can offer everything - much more than many other places can offer.

With such a road there would be no hinterland, the trucks would not have to use Woburn Street in its residential areas, and we think that many firms, instead of just looking, would stay.

It's time to wake up.

Joseph W. Casey, of 2 Main St passed away unexpectedly on July 16th., and was buried in the family lot in the Wildwood cemetery on July 19th.

REMEDIAL READING CLASSES WELL ATTENDED

The Wilmington Public School Summer Remedial Reading class has had a very good response this year, with 156 children participating.

Progress is very good, Miss Mary E. T. Boutillier, Director of the Summer School reports.

The class was first established last summer to aid pupils who have difficulty in their reading program, a difficulty that has often hindered pupils in other classes, but which, contrary to public belief, has nothing to do with the intelligence of the child.

Last year's class was for children in the 4th, 5th and 6th grades who were 6 months or more behind, in the reading program. This year the class has been extended to third graders.

Classes are being held in the Wildwood, Glen Road, and High School districts, with study hours from 8:30 to 10 am and 10:15 to 11:45 am.

The accelerated program for the pupils shows gains of from 3 months to 2 years for reading skills, and progress is noted daily among the pupils.

One clinical speech case and two hard of hearing cases are included in the enrollment.

Stress is laid on attendance, with the pupils being required to attend 90% of the classes. Phonetics and all reading skills are being emphasized.

The classes started on June 27th., and will end on August 5th.

THE FIRST DDD TELEPHONE CALL

Nick De Felice, Chairman of the Wilmington Board of Selectmen was the first person to use the Distance Dialing system, of the Bell Telephone Company, from Wilmington, last Sunday. He called a former resident, and former fellow Legion Commander of Wilmington, Jack Tautges, 707 Grove Lane, Santa Barbara Calif. The call took about 6 seconds to put through.

With Mr De Felice are (seated) Harold Donovan, Manager of the Lowell office, New England Telephone Company, and (l to r) Joseph Smith, Wire Chief, under whose direction the installation was made, Selectmen John D. Brooks, Don Kidder, and Mrs Wavie Drew.

DDD INTRODUCED WITHOUT A HITCH

The Direct Distance Dialing, of the New England Telephone Company, introduced to Wilmington at 12:01 Sunday went off 'without a hitch, and with out a trouble', according to the telephone company.

Wilmington residents can now call nearly any telephone in the United States or Canada with only 10 to 13 pulls on their dial, as a result of the change.

The first call was placed by Nicholas De Felice, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen. Mr. De Felice called a former Wilmington resident, Jack Tautges now a resident of Santa Barbara, California. He used a Town Hall telephone for the occasion, and other Selectmen, listening in on other phones in the Town Hall, joined in the conversation, as did Mrs. De Felice.

Other calls made immediately afterwards, by Town Officials were:

Town Manager Cicil Lancaster, to his brother, in Wilmington North Carolina.

Mrs Wavie Drew, to her son, in Worthington Ohio.

Selectman John Brooks to former Selectman Francis J. Haggerty, now of Mystic Conn.

Selectman Donald Kidder to an uncle, Loren Albert Cleverger, 83 years old, in Billings, Montana. (Kidder's middle initial, C, stands for Cleverger).

The conversation to former Selectman Haggerty became a 'party conversation' like the one to Jack Tautges, as Wilmington's Selectmen joined in from other telephones in the Town Hall.

Elaborate Preparations

The Direct Dialing system of Wilmington was instituted by the telephone company for Wilmington's 3900 phones only after a period of elaborate preparations, involving many days of work, and miles of cables and other apparatus.

Many of Wilmington's business concerns had direct visitation from telephone company officials, and instructors.

The installation was carried out by Joseph P. Smith, Lowell Wire Chief for the telephone company.

All householders and other subscribers had received booklets, fully describing the system, prior to the change-over, Sunday morning.

The new system has made no change in placing local calls, nor in placing calls to Woburn, Reading, Chelmsford, Dracut, Lowell or Tewksbury.

All other calls are now dialed directly by the subscriber, with a brief pause while the subscriber's phone number is recorded by an operator.

The Wilmington installation is believed to be sufficient for several years at least, for Wilmington subscribers, according to Harold E. Donovan, Manager of the Lowell Office. It is a part of a $4 million investment now being installed by the telephone company throughout the Merrimac Valley exchanges.

WILMINGTON CONVERTED TO DIAL TELEPHONES 20 YEARS AGO

The conversion of the Wilmington telephones to Direct Distance Dialing, last Sunday, followed the conversion to Dial Telephoning by almost 20 years.

Wilmington has had dial telephones since August 8, 1940. Selectman Charles H. Black, who was unable to be present at the first DDD call because of illness in his family, made the first call, and still has a photograph of himself making that call.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR FRANK LEAVITT

On Tuesday evening a number of the men of the Wilmington Methodist Church gave a farewell party for Frank Leavitt of Hathaway Road.

Dinner was served in a nearby restaurant with Mr Leavitt as guest of honor. Arthur MacMelville, who served as Vice-Chairman of the Board of Trustees under Frank was Master of Ceremonies.

At the close of the festivities Mr Leavitt was presented a gift of appreciation.

ing of the Board for Monday evening, July 25. It is planned to complete the preliminary planning to begin work on the church parking lot. The Board hopes to have the work completed before fall.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH NEWS

Mr. John Waters, Jr., student assistant to the pastor of the Wilmington Congregational Church will occupy the pulpit at the 10 a.m. worship service on July 24th in the absence of Rev. Robert E. Sanders. The Rev. Stanley Cummings of Buckland, Mass., former pastor of this church, was scheduled to be guest preacher on this date but illness has cancelled his plans to be with his many local friends.

Mr. Elwood E. Gaskill of Beacon St. will be guest organist and the choir will sing as the anthem: 'A Prayer for Wisdom' by Bortniansky. A short choir rehearsal will be held prior to the worship service.

Kinderkirk (child care) is provided during the service under the direction of Mrs. John Ten Dyke.

It is presently planned to dedicate the new communion ware on World Wide Communion Sunday Oct. 2nd. It is therefore requested that individual gifts towards the purchase of this communion set be either left in the plate which has been placed in the rear of the sanctuary, or checks be sent to the church office, made payable to Lawrence Dowling, treasurer of the Couples Club who are handling the finances for this project.

A recently received letter from the pastor, recounting the details of his trip across country and his vacation stay in California, will be mimeographed and sent to each parish family.

News of illness in the parish should be forwarded to the church office immediately. The Rev. Richard Harding is substituting for Rev. Sanders in cases of emergency.

SUNDAY WORSHIP AT WILMINGTON METHODIST CHURCH

During the service of public worship at 10 a.m. in the Wilmington Methodist Church the Rev. Richard E. Harding will continue his series of sermons on the theme: 'Modern Messages from Old Oracles,' based on the Old Testament Prophets. Mr. Harding will preach from passages found in the book of Jeremiah, and invites those who will be worshipping to read this Old Testament prophet in preparation for the service.

Richard Pelletier, lay leader of the church and his wife Ardis will serve as greeters and will welcome worshippers as they come into the church. Members of the Youth Choir under the leadership of Mrs. James Todd will provide special music during the service with Mrs. Raymond Gardner as organist. The altar flowers will be placed in the church in loving memory of the fathers of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Backman.

Families are reminded again that a nursery for infants and small children is provided in the Educational Building each Sunday of the summer and throughout the year. Also during the summer months Sunday School classes are held for children up through and including those in grade three.

ST DOROTHY'S NEWS

SUNDAY MASSES: 6:15, 7:30, 9:10:30 and 11:45.
DAILY MASSES: 7:30 a.m. Saturdays at 8.

CONSTRUCTION STARTS ON CONCORD STREET

Construction of Concord St. as a 'Chapter 90 Road' has been started by the Wilmington Highway Department. A bull dozer was sent to the site Tuesday, to start leveling the extended roadway.

Concord Street has been approved, by the County Commissioners, and the State Engineers, in accordance with the laws of Chapter 90, in which the town pays 25%, the county pays 25% and the state pays 50% of the costs to improve an inter-town highway. The project is expected to take two years to complete.

FRANK TUTTLE AT BOY SCOUT JAMBOREE

Frank Tuttle of Carson Ave. No. Wilmington, an Avco employee, is attending the Fifth National Boy Scout Jamboree at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mr. Tuttle left one week early and is serving as Section Equipment and Maintenance Officer for Section 28, one of the two New England sections. Three days of training were required before the Scouts arrived, and Tuttle will stay two days after they leave, to return equipment.

Tuttle is one of 40 men living in tents, at Colorado Springs, serving on the Regional Staff in Sect. 28.

LETTER

Dear Larz: Have you noticed the boundary marker on Park Street? It is a very impressive sight to see.

It could use a little paint and looks as though it were knocked down 20 years ago, and someone recently found it and decided it would be a good idea to put it up again.

(Name Withheld by Request)
We knew it was down, but we didn't know it was up again. That's the trouble with this town - always something happening! Ed.

Diamond Lake, Oregon
July 15, 1960

Dear Folks: Many miles from home on the shore of a beautiful mountain lake at about 6000 feet elevation.

Our leaving Colorado Springs, Colo., we had some mechanical problems. Spent a half day in Denver having new brakes installed on our trailer. Then went to Boulder, Colo. to see the University of Colorado. It has a beautiful campus with the mountains all about.

It was well that we had new brakes on the trailer when we went over Berthod Pass. Terrific mountain scenery, steep grades, hair-pin turns and many alpine meadows with a profusion of alpine flowers such as one never sees under 10,000 feet elevation.

Then across Idaho thru Pacotello and Boise. Potatoe fields very much in evidence, much as we would see in Aroostock County, in Maine. We were traveling about 500 miles a day so did not stop for any long conversations. However we did stop long enough to listen to a filling station operator tell of shooting a mountain lion that morning that was stalking some sheep.

When we got into eastern Oregon, the country side was very barren, people scarce and until we got to Bend, Oregon there was little to see. Then on to Junction City, Oregon where we visited our friends, the Bucks. While here, I went back into the woods to witness logging operations such as only this part of the country can display, 30 and 40 foot logs, 3 feet in diameter.

Here at Diamond Lake, everyone fishes but not all catch fish. With the number of fishermen and the luck that some do have, it would seem that the lake should be fished out in a month. It is one of those spots that is so beautiful, with the snow capped peak across the lake, that a few days of poor fishing cannot leave you too disappointed.

Later to-day, we go to Crater Lake to see that spectacle of an old volcano now filled with water, in a beautiful wooded region.

More later as we travel on.
The MacDougalls.

the Ladder Pole Swamp, and the car ended its travels with a strong list to the right. Both of the accessible doors were jammed tight, and the three boys were found huddled on the right or lower side, in the front seat, with Lynch on top.

Lynch was evidently struck by the steering wheel, but was falling to the right as it happened, so that, as often happens, he was not pierced by the wheel. His head seemed to have struck the rear view mirror.

In order to extricate the three boys the Wilmington Fire Department had to cut trees and brush, and open the right hand front door from an 'underneath' position.

BUILDER TO APPEAR IN COURT

A local contractor has been cited to appear in Middlesex Superior Court next Monday, because of an alleged failure on his part to obtain a Building Permit before starting construction of a home.

The home in question is being built on Carolyn Road, in No. Wilmington.

Building Inspector Minot Anderson appeared in court last Monday to ask for an injunction, but the court granted a one week delay to give the builder time to respond.
